

Govtech.com Security News Podcast – Episode 3:

Craigslist scammers, hacking through printers, and eDiscovery.

Tuesday, May 27, 2008

Summary

- This week's news on data security, the law, and the digital underworld.
- Scammers and spammers inundating Craigslist?
- "Hacking" through the printers? We ask an expert from HP.
- Study sheds light on the eDiscovery challenges organizations face. We interview a security researcher that worked on the study.

Podcast sponsored by DeviceLock and Emergency Management Magazine.

Notes

Red Cross

- Chinese earthquake funds stolen by cyber criminals

Unencrypted Student Data Lost

- USB drive and laptop stolen from school testing official

Health and Human Services

- Doctor fired when patient data lost

TJX

- Whistle Blower

TVA Electric Utility

- GAO Security Study

Tales from the Dark Web

Cottage industry centered on developing software and services for posting inappropriate posts to Craigslist. Craigslist is working hard to get the problem under control. Solutions for helping Craigslist monitor the problem.

Resources

Interview 1

"Hacking" through the printers? At GTC West in California, the Govtech.com Security News Podcast caught up with Michael Howard, Worldwide Business Development Manager for Security Solutions, Imaging and Printing for HP.

- Best practices for securing multi-function printers
- More info from HP

Interview 2

Study sheds light on the eDiscovery challenges organizations face. Carl Frappaolo, VP Market Intelligence AIIM International.

- Market report on content security
- Email management training from AIIM